Infogressive and the State Treasurer's Office Raise Awareness

Infogressive, Inc. and the State Treasurer's Office are leading the effort to raise awareness among state agencies about PCI compliance. Payment Card Industry (PCI) is a combined effort by several of the largest payment card organizations, such as Visa and MasterCard, to promote the protection of credit card holder data. Infogressive and the Treasurer's Office are hosting a series of presentations available to all state agencies.

Nebraska State Treasurer Shane Osborn said, "With cyber crimes on the rise, I made a commitment to ensure the Treasurer's Office had the resources it needed to guard against these crimes and to protect Nebraska taxpayers from identity theft."

Infogressive CEO Justin Kallhoff stated, "PCI is a straight-forward standard based on information security best practices. It is flexible and continues to evolve as technology changes and the threats to cardholder data continue to arise. It is great to see our state agencies taking a proactive approach to PCI."
